The website that I have created is a portfolio website that tells us briefly about my life up until now. This website contains three websites namely index, about and contact. The index page introduces us to the homepage of the website, it contains information about my present life in Halifax and gives us a glimpse of my past life before I came to Halifax. The about me page contains my hobbies and things I like to do in my free time. It briefly explains my spare time activities like watching documentaries, biographies, and ted-talks. There is a video posted on the webpage from one of my favorite youtuber who vlogs about food. The video contains different varieties of foods from the streets of Dhaka which also my hometown. The video beautifully portrays the different varieties of food from the streets of Dhaka, and it also gives us a good amount of knowledge about the Bangladeshi people. The third and the final page of the website lets the people know how they can contact me. An email link, phone number and LinkedIn profile are present on the webpage where people can check out my other achievements based on my academic carrier.
